

JOHN W. DAVIS BECOMES A REAL FACTOR IN PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Pulls Away From Favorite Son Class in Struggle For Nomination as Balloting Proceeds

POLLS 125 VOTES ON 21ST

Both McAdoo and Smith are Losing Ground. The New York Governor Standing at 307

NEBRASKA DROPS BRYAN

Gives Californian Enough to Make up For Losses—Smith and Davis Try to Break into Iowa

(By United Press)

Madison Square Garden, N. Y., July 1—Real developments were in the making as balloting in the Democratic convention proceeded this afternoon.

After polling 122 votes on the twentieth ballot thus dashing out from the general group of dark horses, John K. Davis of West Virginia increased this by three votes on the twenty-first ballot and was becoming a real factor in the convention. Both McAdoo and Smith were losing ground. The New York governor stood at 307.

Despite the fact that Nebraska dropped Charles W. Bryan, its favorite son, and gave enough votes to McAdoo to make him a gain of seven from that state, the Californian also lost ground and polled only 439. Both Smith and Davis floor workers sought to bring a change in the Iowa delegation. They failed to swing a majority on this delegation, however, and the chairman announced Iowa's vote would be cast as a unit for the time. Meantime Ohio was getting restless. The Smith managers, Norman Mack and Brennan of Illinois, predicted Smith would hold his own for the remainder of the afternoon.

While Davis was growing, the fight between McAdoo and Smith was continuing through ballot after ballot with Smith at least holding his lines but McAdoo falling off. The Californian started off today with 478 votes but had dropped to 432 on the 20th ballot.

The Missouri caucus revealed there were actually twenty-two Davis votes in that delegation, but they are still voting under the unit rule and after the 20th ballot Judge Rockwell was making desperate efforts to swing them back to McAdoo again.

The caucus of the delegation showed 223 votes for Davis and the rest scattered McAdoo had only half dozen votes left. The switch came after Mrs. R. L. Oldfather of St. Louis.

POLICE GIVE WARNING REGARDING FIREWORKS

Too Much Premature Celebration Will Result in Arrests, Chief of Police Stated Today

PARENTS ASKED TO HELP

Parents today were asked by Chief of Police Blackburn to assist in withholding Fourth of July celebrations until Friday, because of numerous complaints registered during the past few days, that boys have been celebrating before time.

Attention to the city ordinance was called today by the police chief, who stated that if it became necessary, it would be enforced. The ordinance prohibits even the sale of the fireworks, or shooting of the fireworks within the city, unless a special permit is issued.

On account of the celebration here Friday, the ban was lifted by the council with the understanding that the celebration should be held only on the Fourth. Local dealers are following the orders, it was stated today, but boys are securing the fire crackers from other sources, and the police tonight will attempt to keep things quiet. It may become necessary to arrest some of the young folks in order to curb the shooting until the proper time, Chief Blackburn stated today, and he asked parents to restrain their children from the early celebrations.

TIDE IS MOVING AGAINST M'ADOO

Although He Can Stop Smith, Many of His Western Delegates Are Leaving New York

PROXIES NOT SO KEEN FOR HIM

John W. Davis, in Third Place, is in Excellent Strategic Position, His Vote Shows

By ROBERT J. BENDER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 1—William G. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith resumed maneuvers today in the great "Freeze out" now being perpetrated on the Democratic convention.

With the convention still tightly locked at midnight after 15 ballots which proved only that both sides were in deadly earnest about definitely stopping the other, today's balloting got under way with the general situation something like this:

1—McAdoo now has considerably more than a third of the convention vote apparently so tied that he can absolutely prevent the nomination of Smith. This number is said to be around 366 votes.

2—Smith is striving to establish a die-hard vote amounting to one-third of the convention so that he can assuredly stop McAdoo. Smith's total during today's balloting is expected to reach 350—beyond which it is doubtful how far he can climb.

3—John W. Davis, in third place, is in excellent strategic position. He has many second choice pledges among the delegates and his popularity generally is shown by the fact that his votes yesterday were scattered through nearly a dozen states.

There are two things that may have a very important effect now on the result and both favor the McAdoo opposition.

First, McAdoo delegates from the western states are leaving the city tonight or tomorrow, and in leaving are compelled to leave their proxies in hands not so eager to name McAdoo. While these proxies can be tied up for a time by McAdoo's friends, it is obvious they can't be held to him forever.

The second fact is the combined

THE SURPRISE DESSERT

CUT OFF SOURCE OF LIQUOR SUPPLY

Fayette County Officers Stop Production Near Glenwood With Arrest of Two Men

YOUNG AND BROOKS GUILTY

Lawrence Brooks, Shoulders Blame and is Sentenced in Place of Father, Forrest Brooks

With the arrest and conviction of two men in Connersville Monday, Fayette county officers are of the opinion that they have cut off one of the biggest supply centers for liquor. The two men arrested and convicted were Corven Young, age 29, and Lawrence Brooks, age 22, of near Glenwood.

The still, a 50 gallon capacity, and six barrels of mash were found on the farm of Forrest Brooks, father of the boy that was convicted. It was stated yesterday, by mistake that Mr. Brooks had been sentenced, but the son shouldered the blame.

In speaking of the search on the farm, located on the Rush-Fayette line, just north of Glenwood, the Connersville News-Examiner says:

Fred Mettel, deputy sheriff, Omer Mandove, federal prohibition officer, Everett Ketchum, chief of police, and Patrolman Mitts went to the Brooks farm Saturday morning and searched for the still. Six barrels of mash were uncovered in a hog shed, but Brooks refused to reveal the location of the still it was said.

Attracted by the odor of the mash the officers entered the shed and

Police Unable to Find Anything Following Word From Muncie Chief

Police Chief Blackburn this morning searched the residence of Clair Smith, 821 North Arthur street, upon request of the police chief at Muncie, who stated over the telephone, that they were holding Mr. and Mrs. Smith in connection with the theft of paint.

According to the police, some of the paint could not be located, and the search was ordered conducted here. Nothing was found, Chief Blackburn stated. The Muncie officer stated over the telephone that Mrs. Smith was being sent back here this afternoon to be with her children, and that Smith was being detained.

Ed Pitman Recalls One Independence Day When He Played Ball in His Overcoat. Decorations Arrive to Dress up City for Log Rolling and Celebration Friday. Clerk John P. Stech Receives Word From Ireland That Four Delegates Will be Here

The present cold snap has caused many people to wonder whether the unseasonable weather will continue over the Fourth of July, when the 25th annual State Log Rolling of the Modern Woodmen lodge will be held here in connection with an elaborate celebration of Independence Day.

It is the rule to associate hot weather with the Fourth of July, because the temperature is generally around ninety every day, at that season.

But there have been cold fourths. If you doubt it, ask Ed Pitman of

HOTEL OWNER IS SUED FOR $1,000

W. B. Sparks and Celesta Sparks, Indianapolis. Charge False Pretense in Alleged Sale

THEY HAD DEPOSITED $500

Allege That Local Proposition Was Misrepresented and They Have Not Been Given Refund

A law suit involving the Windsor hotel in this city was filed today in the circuit court by Indianapolis people, who demand a receiver for the concern, and also are seeking $1,000 damages, alleging fraud in a pretended sale of the concern.

The plaintiffs in the action are William B. Sparks and Celesta I. Sparks of Indianapolis and the defendants are William O. Allen and Joy C. Allen. The complaint charges that in January of this year the hotel was placed in the hands of an Indianapolis realty firm for the purpose of securing a buyer.

The charge is that the defendants represented that the hotel was worth $15,000, was a prosperous concern of good repute, and was providing a net income above expenses of $750 a month. The defendants offered the hotel for sale for $10,000 on terms of $3,000 down, and the balance in monthly installments.

The two complaints alleges that they believed the representations to be true, and that in order to secure the option they deposited $500 in

Ratio 3 to 1 in Favor of Marriages

For Every 3 Marriage Licenses Issued First Six Months, One Divorce Suit Was Filed in the Circuit Court. Thirteen Couples Qualified For Matrimony During "Month of Brides."

For every third couple taking out a marriage license in Rushville during the first six months this year another couple seeks a divorce.

This was the ratio discovered today, when a summary of the first six months was compiled in the county clerk's office at the court house. From January first until yesterday the clerk had issued 66 marriage licenses. During the same period of time he had docketed 22 divorce suits or a ratio of 3 to 1.

On this basis, it means that the chances are 3 to 1 that every person who gets married this year will bring suit for divorce.

In June alone there were 13 marriage licenses and 4 divorce suits filed. This same ratio prevailed for every month this year.

LORAIN BURIES DEAD PRIVATELY

Victims of Devastating Storm Laid to Rest While Search for Remains of Others Continues

RIOTING IN ONE SECTION

Infantry Company is Dispatched to Scene—Nine-Tenths Business Section Laid Low

(By United Press)

Lorain, Ohio, July 1—Lorain buried its dead privately today, the 74 known victims of the devastating storm of Saturday evening, while down town in the ruined business section of the ruined city khaki clad troops moved about.

Where the State Theatre had stood, a light steam shovel puff-puffed as it scooped at the debris where more bodies may be found.

The smell of hot soup came from patrolling army kitchens, while the Salvation Army maintained shelters and Red Cross dressing stations still found something to do.

Murdering and rioting broke out today in what is known as the Colorado Avenue section of the city.

The military authorities, who feared serious fighting between inhabitants of the section and persons who were plundering the wrecked houses, dispatched one company of the 115th Infantry to the scene.

Lorain is not under martial law.

"NUISANCE" TAX IS OFF WEDNESDAY

No Longer Necessary to Pay Excess to Government on Telephone and Telegraph Bills

REVISED SCHEDULE EFFECTIVE

The revised tax law, pertaining to taxes on telephone messages, telegrams, and other taxes commonly known as the "nuisance" taxes, will be effective at midnight July 2. Several revisions and modifications are made.

The toll tax on telephone calls and telegraph messages will be dropped with the stroke of twelve tomorrow night. The tax on amusements will also come off, as well as the fee that must be paid on notes, mortgages and other legal documents.

These are the most important changes that affect the average person. The revised schedule, however, includes an increase in some instances on articles that are regarded as non-essential, such as playing cards, pool tables and the like.

The law was passed June 2 and provided that it should take effect a month later at midnight. The various reports necessary to the government for monthly periods, which will require an additional report for the extra two days this month.

REVIEWS WORK OF WOODMAN LODGE

W. H. Hedrick, National Lecturer of Society, Makes Eloquent Address Before Rotary Club

MANY GUESTS ARE PRESENT

Says Service Performed For Society is True Measure of Organization—Prepares Men to Live

"The man who always has one hand outstretched to receive something and never has the other hand out to pass something on to others, is a stench in the nostrils of the world and in the eyes of God," said W. H. Hedrick of Indianapolis, national lecturer of the Modern Woodmen of America, in an eloquent address before the Rotary club today noon.

Mr. Hedrick was accompanied to Rushville by George E. Hopkins of Indianapolis, state deputy of the Woodmen, who also spoke briefly of the coming State Log Rolling here, and of the value of the Woodman lodge as a fraternal and insurance organization.

John P. Steph, clerk of Burr Oak camp of this city, was also present as a guest, and others besides members of the club at the meeting were Ross McDaniel, former principal of the Rushville high school and now principal of the Oak Park, Ill., high school and member of the Oak Park Rotary club; Ralph Edgerton of Indianapolis, a member of the Indianapolis Rotary club and formerly a resident of Rushville; F. C. Floyd of St. Louis and Havens Frazee, Lowell Green, Jr., and Thomas Green, Jr., of this city.

Mr. Hedrick was invited to address the Rotary club on account of the twenty-fifth anniversary of State Log Rolling association to be celebrated here Friday. The first meeting of the association was held in Rushville, a quarter of a century ago, a fact which Mr. Hedrick referred to in his address.

He outlined briefly the birth, growth and development of the society, recalling how it was founded in Lyons, Iowa, January 5, 1883 by twenty-one men and had grown to a membership of 1,105,000, with $1,500,000,000 of insurance in force and $304,000,000 paid on policies to beneficiaries. Mr. Hedrick also related the incident how the society happened to be called Modern Woodmen. One of the founders was making an address about the pioneer woodmen who had cleared the west for habitation and it occurred to him that Modern Woodmen would express the aim of the organization.

The lecturer pointed out how the society broke down all precedent when it paid the beneficiary of every Woodman who made the supreme sacrifice during the late war, the full face of his policy. A patriotic fund home ranging in age from sixteen years to eighteen months. The Superintendent, Chas. W. Travis and wife and the governesses will accompany the children as guests of the lodge.

Much interest has been aroused by the announcement and it is expected that the children will attract much attention while here. The committee in charge will see that they have every opportunity to enjoy the festivities to the uttermost and hope to make it a red-letter day in their lives.

Members of the executive committee and others in charge of the celebration were calling attention to the fact today that, although the farmers are busy plowing corn and preparing to cut wheat, they can attend the celebration in the afternoon and evening and see about all that there is to be seen. Thus they would lose only a half day.

"Farmers can plow corn until noon and attend the celebration without missing anything," said Will A. Alexander, chairman of the executive committee, who himself is a farmer. "They will only lose a half a day if they wait until noon to come to Rushville. Then they can witness the fraternal and industrial parade, hear the address by Senator Watson, see the drills by the Modern Woodmen teams and see the fireworks both afternoon and evening."

It was announced today that Ben Wilson, dog fancier who lives west of Rushville, would have a number of his valuable dogs in the parade, including a number of police dogs.

BALLOTING IS A BATTLE OF WITS

Unapparent to Galleries, McAdoo and Smith Machines are Skillfully Fighting

ARE USING ALL THEY HAVE

Generals Wirte Orders, Captains Lash Soldiers and Spies Keep Track of The Enemy

By PAUL R. MALLON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Madison Square Garden, New York July 1—Under the outward clamor on the floor of the Democratic convention, two big political organizations are fighting a picturesque and clever war of wits.

Unapparent to the galleries, the McAdoo and Smith machines are skillfully fighting—their generals writing orders, their captains lashing the soldiers to the fight, their spies revealing the movements of the enemy, secret lines of communication, scurrying messengers and councils of war.

David Ladd Rockwell, with a loud gray tweed suit and a yellow cane stands in the center aisle in front of the speakers stand. He has a lieutenant in every delegation where McAdoo has strength and they come to him to bring word of a threatened revolt and promise of a few more votes on the next ballot.

He saunters over to the Wyoming delegation. He puts his arm over the chairman's shoulder and there is a whispered conference. On the next ballot Wyoming casts four votes for McAdoo.

Over in a special soft cushioned seat about half way down the center aisle sits Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Smith generalissimo. He has been stricken with paralysis and he cannot move about. A woman brushes through the crowd around him and buzzes in his ear.

Roosevelt has a stack of note paper in his lap and with a fountain pen he scrawls a few lines hurriedly. He hands it to the man in front of him, who dashes off.

In a few minutes there is another man whispering with the chairman of the Wyoming delegation. And on the next ballot Smith has three votes and McAdoo two.

Underneath the speakers stand there are dark corridors. There George Breunan, the Illinois boss, can be seen walking arm in arm with his leaders. He apparently never sees Roosevelt, for then the enemy would know there was something afoot. But every moment each knows what the other is doing.

Breckenridge Long is first lieutenant for Rockwell. He has women workers with him who go among the women delegates. Down in the basement there is a private telephone and he slips away from the floor every few minutes to tell McAdoo, who is waiting in his suite atop the Vanderbilt hotel, of the progress of the fight.

Smith sits in his private room in the Manhattan Club across the street from the Garden, sipping nothing stronger than Apollinaris. Messengers bring him these little notes from Roosevelt. Norman Mack slips in for a few minutes conference.

In this way the day and the night drags through with the deadlock unbroken.

This is the war. This is the strategy. This is the story of the silent fight.

Pitman and Wilson's who was a base ball player of note in his youth.

"I very well remember when I wore an overcoat playing ball one Fourth of July about twenty-five years ago," said Mr. Pitman this morning. "I was playing with Cambridge City then and we had a game at Bluffton. I was out in centerfield, and after a few innings, I took out my overcoat and wore it while in the field to keep from freezing."

Ralph Edgerton of Edgerton & Company, Indianapolis, national decorators, arrived this morning with a truck load of decorations and a crew of three men to begin decorating the store fronts and streets for the Fourth of July celebration.

The decorating for the holiday will follow a general scheme, with a Modern Woodmen banner between two draped American flags.

Not every business man in Rushville has contracted to have his store front decorated, but it is believed that very few merchants will permit their places of business to remain bare of decorations when the majority of stores will be arrayed in red, white and blue for the occasion.

Mr. Edgerton, the head of the company, formerly lived in Rushville, and he was busy this morning meeting old friends.

"If you think we haven't stirred up anything over this State Log Rolling look at this letter," said J. P. Stech, clerk of Burr Oak camp of Modern Woodmen of this city, who was the moving spirit in Rushville in bringing the 25th annual event here.

"It's a letter from Ireland," continued Mr. Stech, as he passed it over to a Daily Republican reporter, "and only goes to show how the news of this event has spread to the four corners of the earth."

And the reporter found on close inspection that it was a letter from Ireland, Ind., notifying the clerk that four delegates would be here for the Log Rolling.

"Where's Ireland?" you ask.

Nine tenths of the business district of Lorain will have to be rebuilt, engineers say. Nearly all of the buildings left standing were so badly weakened by the tornado they will have to be torn down.

The governor was to confer today with business men and state officials on some plan of rehabilitation and financiers from other cities have been called to the conference to discuss plans for getting the needed capital.

All of the homeless had temporary shelter today. School buildings and tents, furnished quarters for about 2,000 persons.

FIRST WHEAT CUT BY ORANGE FARMER

Dave Gosnell Has Forty Acre Field in Shock and Hal Gosnell Cuts His Field Today

THRESHING RATES ARE FIXED

Orange township is running ahead of all other in the wheat cutting business, according to word received today. Dave Gosnell is the first farmer in the county, as far as could be learned, that has his wheat shocked, and his 40 acre field was cut a week ago. Hal Gosnell, county commissioner, also of that township, was cutting his wheat today.

The threshing will be later this year all over the county, on account of the weather. Farmers as a rule are generally beginning to thresh about July 4, but no one will be ready this year.

The Rush County Brotherhood Threshmen, an organization of the owners, of the outfits that thresh wheat, have adopted a scale for the work this season. They have announced that wheat will cost 8 cents, rye 10 cents and oats 5 cents a bushel for threshing. Where the owner furnishes gasoline or kerosene for power an additional cent a bushel will be charged.

Elwood—Local police are sore. Thieves entered the police station and made away with a suitcase of beer seized in a raid.

Greensburg—Possession of two squirrels cost Russell Kelly plenty. Squire Creath fined him $47 for possession of the squirrels out of season.

BIBLE FOR TODAY

No more war—Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war

any more.—Isaiah 2:4

Prayer:—May the Prince of Peace, through our lives, so exercise His power on earth, that

Pre-Fourth Celebrations

Fears are being expressed that the unlicensed shooting of firecrackers of all sizes will result in the loss or life and property before the Fourth has passed in Rushville.

For almost a decade a "safe and sane" Fourth has been observed in Rushville. The sale of fireworks and the firing of firecrackers has been prohibited and the ordinance has been rigidly enforced.

This year the city council was persuaded to lift the ban on the sale of fireworks and permit them to be sold

after twelve o'clock noon on Thursday, July 3. Consequently, local merchants laid in a big supply of fireworks, with the understanding that none would be sold before the afternoon of the day before the Fourth.

In case any were sold, it was understood that they would not be placed in possession of the buyer before the afternoon of the third.

Whether there has been any infringement of this rule, it is not known, but there has been no doubt about the promiscuous shooting of firecrackers four days before the Fourth, and that the boys who have been shooting them got them someplace.

No one should lose sight of the fact that the Fourth of July "safe and sane" ordinance still stands on the city records and that it is in full force and effect. It is the duty of the police to prevent the firing of firecrackers wherever possible, even though someone may have violated

the law in selling them.Lifting the ban on the sale and use of fireworks is merely another way of "winking" at the law. Any taxpayer, if he were so disposed, could compel the enforcement of the ordinance,
because it is a part of the city law,
and faced with such a proposition,
the only alternative for the city council would be absolute repeal of the ordinance.The council expected that people would not violate the trust imposed in them by lifting the ban on fireworks for the afternoon of the third and all day the Fourth, due to the celebration and Modern Woodman
state Log Rolling to be held here.It was expressly set forth that no fireworks were to be sold or fired before noon July 3, but the way the orders of the council have been disobeyed makes it doubtful whether the lifting of the ban was a wise move on the part of the council.It is reported that the chief of police has been endeavoring to stop the firing of firecrackers, but that other members of the police force have been giving boys permission to fire them. This may be one of the reasons why so little regard has been paid to the orders of the council.The Hodge-Podge

Hunt's Washington LetterBY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer.NEW YORK—"Kansas," said William Alden White, in the editorial which first introduced him to fame, "can raise something else besides hell."
And in proof of the Kansas journalist's statement the Sunflower
State is holding up for the consideration of the nation, at the Democratic convention here, the
sas-born and Kansas-bred, as the man who can pull the Democratic party across the election line Nov.
4, a winner.All the direct efforts in Davis' behalf have been aimed, ostensibly,
at making him the compromise candidate for president. That's the way the game is played. No one really expects Davis to be nominated, of course. Not even the most optimistic booster from his own home state.But by shooting at the presidency, by aiming high, it is hoped the Davis trajectory may carry him to second place on the ticket and bring him the nomination for vice president.THE claim that is made first and foremost for Davis is that he is a real dirt farmer. Although as governor of the sovereign state of Kansas he does linen collar and polished shoes in his office, his real preference is for the overalls and hemp of the farmer. And instead of a golf club, he prefers to grab a pitchfork or a hoe handle.Davis was born in Kansas 53
years ago and has lived all his life on a farm. His avocation, however, has been helping to shape public affairs. He served eight years as a member of the Kansas House of Representatives and four
as state senator before his election,
two years ago, as governor.Between raising corn and hogs, Davis has been a diligent student of history and economics. He has a natural aptitude for absorbing information and for applying it practically. As a result, his fellowKansas describe him as "an intellectual giant, who can talk with a farmer or a farm hand with equal grace and who knows equally well the business end of a plow or of a governmental policy."
"He is no spavined political war-horse," they urge. "Neither is he an economic maniac. He's a sane, practical, horse-sense farmer and citizen who knows the problems and the needs of the average American. He represents the common people and he comes from the heart of the country."NEXT to Davis, as a candidate aimed at the presidency but counted on to score in the vice presidential circle, is Carl Vrooman, of Bloomington, Ill.
Vrooman, 51 years old, looks more nearly 41. He's a slender, erect, brown-mustached man with a bright eye and an engaging smile.Vrooman also is urged as a "dirt farmer" candidate. He operates some 4200 acres of farm lands in Illinois and Iowa.Unlike Davis, however, Vrooman doesn't often get between the plow handles or heave the pitchfork.
Still, it's from his farms he makes his living and, as he says, when the farmers lose money he loses
money.He wears the tan of a farmer,
but his bearing and general appearance make it appear rather than the tan of the tennis court and the golf links than of the hay field.
For he's a college man, an authority on agricultural and railroad economics and when in New York lives at the Harvard Club.MORE and more the delegates to the New York convention—that is, those of them from the west and south—believe now is the time for the farmers to make hay.
The agricultural vote, it is conceded, will determine the next president. A close representative of agriculture, then, either in first or second place on the ticket, may be depended on to cut a wide
swath.FIFTEEN YEARS

cost bears to the other expenses, incident to the operation of an automobile, is interesting and surprising.It has been computed by Oil and Gas Journal that, on the average, the motorist of the United States pays $900.00 for a car. The same authority states that taking into account all the fixed items of annual expense incident to the operation of an automobile—including depreciation,
interest on investment, insurance, licenses and taxes—gasoline costs only 15.6% of the total. Other authorities bring this expense down to as low as 10% of the total.While gasoline is a major factor in the operation of a car, the expense, when compared to the whole, is of minor importance.We believe that this is due in large measure to the advanced work of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) who, by increasing the yield of gasoline from the crude oil available, has kept the price of this product within the reach of all.Without the processes originated and developed by this Company, the price of gasoline would be much higher than it is at present.Without the distribution system maintained today by the petroleum industry,
initiated and expanded by this Company,
touring would be impractical.It is due in large measure to the initiative,
skill and resourcefulness of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), that motoring has been taken out of the sphere of the "richman's sport" and that it has been made possible for the man of modest means to take his family and get out into the fresh air and sunshine.It is the inspiration of such achievements that spurs the 27,000 men and women of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) on to greater accomplishments, which will add to the pleasure of living for the thirty million people of the Middle West.Standard Oil Company(Indiana)

KEEPING ONE EYE ON THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero—Rogers Hornsby, whose home run in the fourth beat the Pirates 7-5, and broke the Cardinal's losing streak.

Babe Ruth's 19th homer helped the Yankees pile up a 10-4 score on the Athletics in their first game, but the latter connected with Markle and Gaston in the second and won 10-3.

Two homers by Jake Fournier, Robins first baseman, wasn't enough to defeat the Giants, who won 7-5.

An error by Judge in the eleventh inning of the first game gave the game to the Red Sox, 2-1, but the Senators came back and took the second 3-1.

Six runs in the fourth inning was too big a lead for the Phils to overcome and the Braves won 9-4 in the first game, but a series of two batters in the ninth gave the Phils the second, 6-4.

A two run rally in the ninth gave the Reds a 2-1 victory over the Cubs.

The White Sox had no difficulty winning from the Tigers in a slug-fest, 11-4.

FIELD TO NARROW DOWN

Nationally Famous Tennis Players in Indianapolis "Western"

Indianapolis, Ind., July 1—World famous tennis survivors of the first day's play in the thirty-eighth annual western championships advanced to their second matches of the meet at the Woodstock Club today.

Although carrying only a "Western" title, the meet is providing Davis Cup calibre play. Big Bill Tilden's appearance and victory over his first opponent was the high light of the first day's play.

Completion of the play this afternoon will see the field of contenders narrowed to thirty-four.

Ideal weather of the opening days has set the meet off to an auspicious start which bids fair to out-do any previous court play in the middle-west.

FIGHTS AND FIGHTERS

New York—Georges Carpentier and Gene Tunney will meet in a 15-round bout for the American light heavyweight title at the Polo Grounds on July 22, Jimmy Johnston, the match-maker announced today.

Two small chemical tanks extinguished the blaze.

MOVIES

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Coming

Jno. F. Stowe's world's greatest production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at Rushville on Thursday evening July 3. Mr. John F. Stowe has successfully solved the problem of combining the old and the new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves out nothing worth retaining of either the straight method or the circus method. All worthy features of the old landmarks are retained, while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed making it more coherent; this, with the introduction of a host of high class specialists thoroughly in keeping with the piece, goes far toward forming an evening's entertainment. Over 50 people are with the company and 20 auto cars and trucks are used to transport this mammoth aggregation from city to city.

Jacqueline Logan at Princess

"Code of the Sea," a Victor Fleming production for Paramount, featuring Rod La Roque and Jacqueline Logan, was shown for the first time at the Princess theatre yesterday.

The story is an original for the screen by Byron Morgan, author of many of Wally Reid's automobile successes. Bertram Millhauser made the adaptation.

In the picture, La Roque has the role of Bruce McDow, first mate on the light ship Barrier Reef. One night a great storm comes up, and the yacht Neroid, on which is Jenny Hayden, (Miss Logan), McDow's sweetheart, goes on the rocks and is breaking up fast. At the same time the passenger steamer Northern, Captain Hayden, played by George Fawcett, is trying to make port with three hundred passengers. A Wireless message from the steamer orders McDow to remain at his station so the Northern can clear the reef in safety.

The lighthouse springs one of her forward chains, but McDow orders his men to ride it out until they break loose. He puts out to the Neroid in a small boat, picking up a lifeline, which has been shot out from a shore station and fallen short. He just about makes the Neroid in time—sees all on board taken safely ashore in the breeches buoy—for the frail craft disappears beneath the waves with the captain and himself abroad. Is that the end of him?

Last Showing Tonight

In a picture notable for its variety, few scenes are more faithful to actuality than those showing the lives of the wandering jugglers of Sweden, in the William Fox production of "The Blizzard". This picture, which was adapted from "The Story of a Country House" by Selma Lagerlof, winner of the Nobel prize for literature, opened a two day run at the Castle theatre Monday.

Adolf Olachansky portrays the trouper, Stina Berg is his wife and Mary Johnson, the Mary Pickford of Europe, is Ingrid, the adopted waif of the little circus. The decrepit wagon, the horse which won't pull without musical accompaniment, all add to the fidelity of the picture.

The big scene is a stampede of reindeers during a fierce blizzard. This phase of the entire production is alone a spectacle worth viewing, according to advance accounts received here.

two duty buttons will be given. Those who have Scout suits should wear them, and as many others as possible wear ordinary khaki trousers and shirts. Troop leaders for all troops should see every boy in his troop and help have a good attendance. Troops 1 and 3 are especially invited to come out as they failed to have any representatives in the last parade. The parade will form in West First street at 12:45 o'clock.

Watch the Scout Notes tomorrow for details of an archery contest recently started.

The first shipment of pictures in the Eastman Kodak contest for a $22 folding kodak will go in this week. Boys desiring to send pictures should hand them in before Thursday. Be sure your picture tells a story before you hand it in. More than one picture may be sent in now and you may send in the next shipment about August 1st. Any number of pictures may be submitted.

The Boys Drum Corps practiced Monday night at eight o'clock at Memorial Park. A very good time is promised the boys who get in this corp and stick with it. There is room for 2 or 3 more boys in this if anyone cares to join. It doesn't make any difference whether you can play a drum or not, but do not come unless you expect to stick with it for these boys are planning for a real time this fall.

Delay of service pins and duty badges is due to a change of orders at National Headquarters and the issuance of a new catalogue of supplies. The badges will be on hand with a full supply by camp time. Remember how many you have coming and keep those you already have. Seven of them, you know, entitles you to a years service bar.

had served a notice on the leaders she would demand an open poll for the delegation on every roll call.

The balloting swung along. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is leading the Smith campaign, prepared for a long siege and ordered scores of glasses of iced coffee and sandwiches brought into the New York delegation, who lunched without leaving the hall.

Meantime in the basement hot dogs were selling at twenty cents each and had ham between slices of molded bread was held at 25 cents per sandwich. Then you could use your own judgment whether you ate the sandwich after getting a look at the paper covering was removed.

Between ballots the local delegation which had become increasingly restless, caucused on the floor to determine whether it would follow the lead of Missouri and switch away from McAdoo.

E. E. Meredith of Des Moines took the poll and said he thought probably Iowa would remain under the unit rule for McAdoo, at least for a time. The poll of the Missouri delegation showed: J. W. Davis, 23 1-6; McAdoo 2, Glass 2 2-6; Walsh 3-6.

A majority of the delegations having voted for Davis, Chairman Walsh instructed that the full number of votes be cast for Davis.

During the taking of the nineteenth ballot the McAdoo floor workers were more than busy. They were buttonholing all over the hall. In the meantime an interesting picture was presented in the spectators section for there sat Bernard Baruch, former head of the war industrial board. Baruch has been closely associated with McAdoo's pre-convention campaign and today put on the appearance of a general director of forces from the hilltop where his box was located.

Judge Rockwell, McAdoo's manager, Bruce Kramer and other leaders of the California forces made frequent trips from the floor to Baruch's box.

NON-STOP TRIP TO BE MADE

New Touring Car to Pass Thorough Here Twice Daily

Chevrolet dealers in several cities in this vicinity are sponsoring a ten day non-stop test trip for a new touring car, beginning tomorrow at Shelbyville, and covering Franklin, Greensburg, Columbus, Seymour and this city with daily visits, expecting to do more than 5,000 miles within the ten days. The speedometer will be locked at Shelbyville in the morning by the mayor of that city, and the machine will start on its trip.

No attempts to break speed records will be made because the car is a new one, an endurance test being the motive. The car will pass through here twice a day, and at no time will the engine be shut down during the ten day period. George C. Alexander & Co., of this city, are interested in the tour.

Government's Fight to Regain Possession of Naval Oil Reserves at Standstill Until Then

LEGAL MANEUVERS COMING

(By United Press)

Washington, July 1—The federal government's fight to regain possession of naval oil reserves is now at a standstill until October.

Trial of Albert Fall, Harry Sinclair, E. L. Doheny and his son, indicted for conspiracy to defraud the government will not begin here before then.

Suits instituted in Wyoming and California for cancellation of the leases likewise will not be heard until October.

All four defendants indicted yesterday must appear here next week to post $5,000 bond each. Fall and the Dohenys' for conspiracy and bribery, and Sinclair for conspiracy.

Usual legal maneuvers, such as the filing of demurrers and motions to dismiss are expected to be made and these may be ruled on during the summer by the one justice sitting in court here.

The indictments were regarded here as a great victory.

TIDE IS MOVING AGAINST McADOO

psychological affect of the inevitable breaking of the unit rule in some states, and the gallery demonstrations for Smith. Several states now voting solidly for McAdoo under the unit rule have many delegates for other candidates in their line up. Once they abandon the unit rule, even the slightest turn to Smith will bring down a din from the galleries, where the God of Smith reigns supreme.

Anyone who has sat through a week of this quadrennial hippodrome knows how the delegate basks in the smile of the cheering galleries; how he dotes on standing on his chair and under the eyes of thousands utter something—anything—that will start a cheer from those 12,000 throats.

There are many delegates who would like to make the announcement of a vote that would rock those galleries and perhaps start a swing to one candidate or the other. This state of mind favors Smith because breaks in the unit rule are inevitable and will be taken by the galleries as the beginning of the end of McAdoo and the start of ride to victory for Smith. Therein appears to rest the one big chance of a stamped to Smith.

Because, therefore, it is necessary first to stop McAdoo's continued gains, the Smith forces are trying to absolutely hobble one third of the delegates. Then theirs will be a waiting game—waiting until a sufficient number of McAdoo men leave town or until the delegates are sufficiently weary to be susceptible to stampede. It is easy to understand why the Smith people are saying, "there will be no nomination before Thursday evening."

Neither McAdoo nor Smith has reached the peak of his strength yet. McAdoo has votes in Arkansas, New Hampshire and Virginia at least which he can count on in a pinch. Smith has between 16 and 20 more votes in the Illinois delegation that Brennan is saving for the psychological moment and there are additional points of strength for the New York governor in Delaware, Maryland and, when the unit rule comes off, in Missouri, Iowa and Kansas.

So it would not be surprising to see McAdoo rise as high as 550 votes today, with Smith going to 375—and still no likelihood of a choice either way.

The situation yields itself easily

Attica—A driver for Cad's taxi line drove up to a filling station and held a match down to the tank to see how much he needed. He will live.

Are Women 100 Per Cent Efficient

How many women do you know who are one hundred percent efficient? That means every nerve and sinew of the body pulsating with life and health as nature intended. Do you not know more who are half dead and half alive, with aches, pains, nervous, irritable and despondent, making themselves miserable and every one around them? Women in this condition should let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound rebuild and restore them to a normal healthy condition which will make them one hundred percent efficient and life worth living. There are women in every section of this country who testify to its merits.

to consideration of dark horse possibilities. McAdoo and his managers declare they see no dark horse.

"The virity of Mr. McAdoo was shown through 15 ballots", Judge Rockwell said. "It can mean only one thing. He will be nominated today."

In this connection it is persistently rumored that if McAdoo secures a majority in the balloting and holds this majority for several ballots he may try to have the convention rules changed to permit the nomination by majority instead of by two thirds. There is no confirmation however, of this possibility.

Then Smith folks are talking strongly but are looking somewhat worried. They insist, however, that Smith is the strongest man in the convention from the stand point of popular appeal and that since there aren't any other men as strong or stronger with the people generally, they have no choice beyond him.

There is discussion of a ticket, outside these two leading camps, of John W. Davis and either Smith, as a vote getter or some middlewesterner for sectional reasons.

It is too early yet, however, to go very far into the possibilities lying outside the situation as it stands now.

was levied on each member to make this possible. Six thousand boys from the society served their country during the war, he said, 2,076 gave their lives and $2,500,000 in insurance was paid to their beneficiaries.

"So long as he is fighting in defense of Old Glory," continued Mr. Hedrick, "his claim will be paid 100 cents on the dollar."

"The Modern Woodmen are not only preparing men to die," said the speaker, in leading up to a description of the Woodman tubercular sanitarium at Colorado Springs, "but we are preparing them to live. Too many men are not fit to live."

The sanitarium, located on a tract of 1306 acres, Mr. Hedrick asserted, is the most complete in the United States, and was so recommended by the U. S. navy when a place was selected to treat afflicted sailors. Six thousand, five hundred patients have been treated since 1909, he stated, and 65 per cent of them discharged absolutely cured, able to perform their customary duties in life. The other 35 per cent was improved, but unable to return to their work.

"This is one of the many examples of service this society has performed," Mr. Hedrick continued. He had previously outlined the response of the society to humanitarian appeals from all parts of the world, following earthquake, flood, cyclone and famine, in which 3 and a half million dollars has been expended.

"There is just one thing underlying it all," the speaker declared. That is patriotic self sacrifice. If I were called on to name what is wrong with the world, I would not say public graft or immorality, but too much self and materialism in the world.

"The true measure of the worth of your organization to the community is the service which it gives, and not what it receives. The same thing is true of all organizations.

searched carefully. Chief Ketchum observed a depression in the mud where a barrel evidently had been buried. The ground in which several pigs were wallowing also appeared to be abnormally soft. After digging about two feet the barrels were found buried beneath the slime in which the pigs a few minutes before had revelled. The mash was destroyed.

"The still is on another man's farm," Brooks is reported to have said. "If you will give me a chance I will get it back here."

The officers returned to the city and conferred with Sheriff Haley. The sheriff accompanied the searchers on a second trip. Brooks was told that if he didn't disclose the location of the still charges would be placed against the entire family. He consented and led the officers to a narrow ravine about 100 yards north of the house. Buried beneath twigs and other camouflage, the still was found with complete equipment.

cash, and were to pay the balance of the $3000 soon afterwards.

In February, the complaint alleges that the plaintiff learned that the hotel was not prosperous, was not of good repute in the commercial business, and was not earning a net profit of $750 a month, and in fact, was scarcely earning the $200 that is required on the lease by the month.

The two plaintiffs alleges that they have made demands for their $500 because of false statements, and that the defendants have wholly refused to pay them. They charge that because they have invested that amount of money, that they have an interest in the place, and that a receiver should be appointed to manage the affairs of the hotel.

The action does not mention the fact that the hotel has since been sold to an Ohio hotel concern. An Indianapolis attorneys represents the two plaintiffs in the action.

Why Blankets and Comforts Need Washing Now

Our ideas about many familiar things develop as we move along. If blankets and comforts were washed once in a twelvemonth a century ago, our forefathers thought it was sufficient.

Now we know that these bedclothes become soiled, even if to the eye they may seem sanitary enough.

If you would have your blankets and comforts as spotless and immaculate as your other bed linen, send them to us. We employ a special method of laundering.

We have just installed a machine for drying comforts and blankets. You will be surprised just how nice and soft we do them now.

ing that makes them light and fresh, that gives them a wonderful fluffiness.

Our method of drying freezes blankets and comforts from every impurity—gives to them the feel and look that nature bestows when they are dried in the sunshine on a summer's day.

Send us such of your blankets and comforts as you can spare next time our driver calls for your family washing. Or telephone, and we will have our man stop in when next he visits your neighborhood.
